I struggle with pride when I run across people who are trying to impress the worship pastor. I'm sure you've met those people, the ones that burst into song when you're around or who start air drumming and when you ask "do you play the drums?" they look surprised so they can pretend like they werent just air drumming awkwardly secretly hoping you would ask them that.

We should be immensely grateful that Paul understood the central importance of grace in our salvation. If he had not, the all-important mission to the Gentiles would have faded away as a momentary breeze in an otherwise stiflingly hot day dominated by sin, the flesh, and our hopeless attempts to justify our own selfish actions.
